

NUMBER CLXXXIII.

	Page
ART. XLIV.—Elasticity of Ice; by JOHN TROWBRIDGE and AUSTIN L. McRAE,	349
XLV.—Digestion Experiments; by H. P. ARMSBY,	355
XLVI.—Massive Safflorite; LE ROY W. McCAY,	369
XLVII.—Application of Photography to Electrical Measure- ments; by JOHN TROWBRIDGE and H. V. HAYES,	374
XLVIII.—Production of alternating currents; by JOHN TROWBRIDGE and H. V. HAYES,	377
XLIX.—Topaz from Stoneham, Maine; by F. W. CLARKE and J. S. DILLER,	378
L.—Relation between the residual elasticity and the chemi- cal constitution of glass; by O. T. SHERMAN,	385
LI.—Meridional Deflection of Ice-Streams; by W. J. MCGEE, 386	386
LII.—Pre-Glacial Channel of Eagle River; by CHARLES WHITTLESEY,	392
LIII.—Age of the Slaty and Arenaceous rocks in the vicinity of Schenectady, N. Y.; by S. W. FORD,	397

SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE.

- Chemistry and Physics.*—Freezing Point of Saline solutions, RAOULT, 399.—Influence of light on Chemical reactions, SCHRAM: Salts formed by Tellurium with Acids, KLEIN and MOREL, 400.—Atomic Weight and certain Compounds of Samarium, CLÈVE: Purification of Methyl Alcohol, REGNAULT and VILLEJEAN, 401.—Phenol Coloring Matters, BRUNNER and ROBERT: Application of the Pendulum to the determination of the mean density of the earth, WILSING, 402.—Method of studying the Electrical Potential of the air, M. PELLAT, 403.—Measurement of Magnetic Force by hydrostatic pressure: A Selenium Actinometer, M. H. MORIGE: Measurement of the Force of Gravity at Naha and Kagoshima, Japan, S. SAKAI and E. YAMAGUCHI, 404.—A Method of Measuring the Absolute Sensitiveness of Photographic Dry Plates, W. H. PICKERING, 405.
- Geology and Mineralogy.*—Glacial Deposits of Central North America, G. M. DAWSON, 408.—Elephant Pipes in the Museum of Natural Sciences, Davenport, Iowa, C. E. PUTNAM, 411.—The Mersey Tunnel, T. M. READE, F.G.S., 413.—Notes respecting Metamorphism, J. J. STEVENSON: A Reprint of Geological Reports and other papers on the Geology of the Virginias, W. B. ROGERS, LL.D., 414.—Fulgurites in the High Alps, BRUN, 415.—Paleontology of the Eureka District, G. D. WALCOTT, 416.—The Occidental Alps, M. LORY: Communicacoes da Secção dos Trabalhos Geologicos de Portugal, 417.—Rhinoceros and Hippotherium from Florida, DR. LEIDY: Das Antlitz der Erde von EDUARD SUSS: Studies of some Japanese rocks, DR. BRUNDJIRO KOTÔ: American Fossil Cockroaches, S. H. SCUDDER, 418.—Silurian Fossil Cockroach from Jurques in Northwestern France, M. C. BRONGNIART: Geology of Southern Kansas: Fauna of the St. John Group, S. F. MATTHEWS: Mineralogical Notes. G. vom RATH, 419.—Bourmonite; Cuprite, H. A. MIERS: Lehrbuch der Mineralogie, G. TSCHERMAK: Fairfieldite from Bavaria: Informe sobre las Especies Minerales del Estado de Jalisco per CARLOS F. DE LANDERO: Smaltite from Colorado, 420.
- Zoology.*—Elementary Text-Book of Zoology, C. CLAUS, 421.—Presence of eyes in the shells of certain Chitonidæ.—H. N. MOSELEY, 422.
- Miscellaneous Scientific Intelligence.*—Temperature for March, 422.—Scientific Papers and Addresses of George Rolleston, 423.—Formation of a deaf variety of the Human Race, A. G. BELL: Prehistoric Fishing in Europe and North America, C. RAU: Dictionary of Altitudes in the United States, H. GANNETT, 424.