

CONTENTS OF VOLUME XXXIX.

Number 229.

ART. I.—Measurement of the Peruvian Arc; by E. D. PRESTON	1
II.—Neutralization of Induction; by J. TROWBRIDGE and S. SHELDON	17
III.—Divergent Evolution and the Darwinian Theory; by J. T. GULICK	21
IV.—Devonian System of North and South Devonshire; by H. S. WILLIAMS	31
V.—Zinciferous Clays of Southwest Missouri and a Theory as to the growth of the Calamine of that section; by W. H. SEAMON	38
VI.—Minium from Leadville; by J. D. HAWKINS	42
VII.—Mineralogical Notes; by W. P. BLAKE	43
VIII.—Spectrum of Ursæ Majoris; by E. C. PICKERING ...	46
IX.—Contributions to Mineralogy, No. 46; by F. A. GENTH	47
X.—Origin of Normal Faults; by T. M. READE	51
XI.—Estimation of the Optical Angle by Observations in Parallel Light; by A. C. LANE	53
XII.—New Stone Meteorite; by L. G. EAKINS	59
XIII.—Barium Sulphate from Perkins' Mill, Templeton, Province of Quebec; by E. S. DANA	61
XIV.—APPENDIX.—Description of New Dinosaurian Reptiles; by O. C. MARSH. With Plate I.	81

SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE.

- Chemistry and Physics.*—Decomposition of Carbon disulphide by shock, THORPE, 65.—Light and Electricity, RIGHI: Galvanic Polarization, WARBURG: Simple modification of the method of Telescope and Scale reading, DUBOIS, 66.
- Geology and Mineralogy.*—North American Geology and Paleontology, S. A. MILLER: Geological and Natural History Survey of Minnesota for the year 1888, N. H. WINCHELL, 67.—Geology of the Quicksilver Deposits of the Pacific Slope, G. F. BECKER, 68.—New locality of Lower Silurian Fossils in the Limestones of Columbia Co., N. Y., I. P. BISHOP, 69.—Shallow-water origin of the Cincinnati shale and limestone: Lower Cretaceous of the San Carlos Mountains, Mexico, 70.—Sabre-toothed tiger and other Quaternary Mammals of Florida, J. LEIDY: Fossils of the Western Taconic limestone in the eastern part of Dutchess Co., N. Y., W. B. DWIGHT: Cambrian fossils from the limestone of Nahant, Mass., A. F. FERSTE: Development of some Silurian Brachiopoda, C. E. BECHER and J. M. CLARKE: Devonian Plants from Ohio, J. S. NEWBERRY, 71.—U. S. Geological Survey Bulletins: Geological Survey of Missouri, A. WINSLOW: Geologie der Münsterthals in Badischen Schwarzwald, A. SCHMIDT: Contribuzioni alla Flora Fossile dei Terreni Terziarii della Liguria, S. SQUINABOL, 72.—Jarosite from Utah, F. A. GENTH: Brief notices of some recently described Minerals, 73.—Das Reich der Krystalle, H. BAUMHAUER, 75.
- Botany.*—Die natürlichen Pflanzenfamilien, A. ENGLER und K. PRANTL, 75.—Effects produced on some tropical plants by a temperature of 40 to 34 degrees, 77.—Apparatus for easily controlling temperatures at or below freezing, for experiments on the relations of plants to cold, 78.—Disintegration of woody tissues: Illustrations of West American Oaks, A. KELLOGG, 79.
- Miscellaneous Scientific Intelligence.*—Ascent of a Peak in the Cascade Mountains, J. RÖLL, 80.
